

Summary of Commitments for Syrian and Iraqi Refugees

To date

	Syrians	Iraqis
COMMITMENT	11,300*	23,000
ADMISSIONS as at Sept. 2015	2,406	22,405
ADMISSIONS and VISA ISSUED by Dec. 2015	6,400	23,000

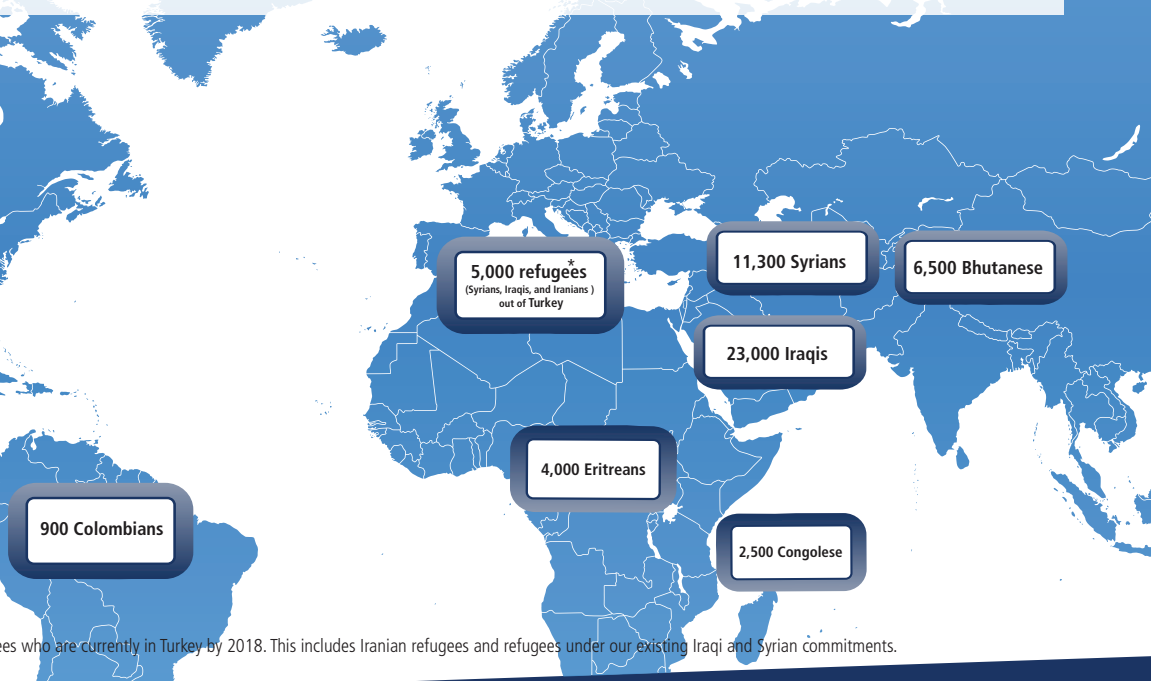

Since 2009, Canada has permanently resettled nearly 25,000 Iraqi and Syrian refugees. That is more than most other countries.

*In July 2013, Canada agreed to permanently resettle 1,300 Syrian refugees. Canada met this initial commitment in March 2015.

In January 2015, Canada expanded its commitment by resettling an additional 10,000 Syrians, which will now be met, by September 2016.

CANADA'S REFUGEE RESETTLEMENT COMMITMENTS AROUND THE WORLD

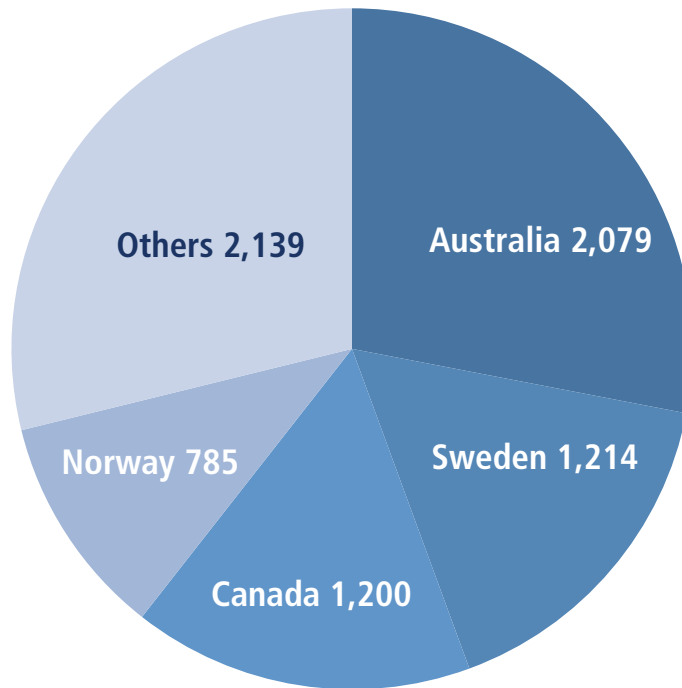

Around the world about 100,000 refugees are resettled each year. Of that, Canada resettles approximately 11,000 to 13,000. This means that Canada resettles on average one out of every 10 refugees globally through its government-assisted and privately sponsored refugee programs.

*Canada has committed to resettling 5,000 refugees who are currently in Turkey by 2018. This includes Iranian refugees and refugees under our existing Iraqi and Syrian commitments.

UN Refugee Agency data on resettlement of Syrian and Iraqi refugees in countries around the world from 2009 to 2014

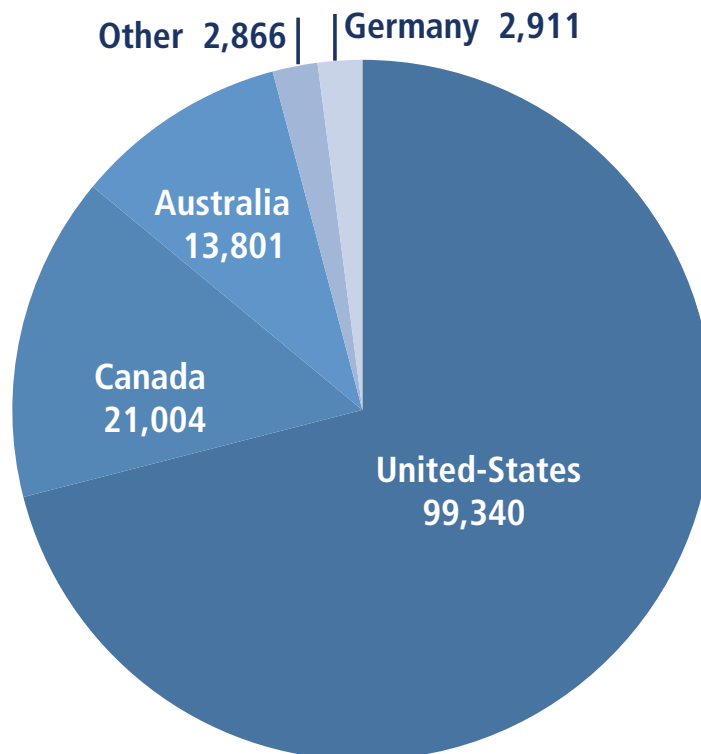

SYRIAN

Other:

United States
Finland
Austria
Netherlands
United Kingdom
Denmark
Switzerland
Ireland
Uruguay
France
Belgium
Luxembourg
New Zealand
Liechtenstein
Germany
Philippines
Hungary
Brazil

IRAQI

Other:

Finland
Sweden
Netherlands
New Zealand
United Kingdom
Norway
France
Romania
Belgium
Ireland
Luxembourg
Denmark
Portugal
Philippines
Switzerland

Since 2009, Canada has permanently resettled nearly 25,000 Iraqi and Syrian refugees. That is more than most other countries. In January 2015, Canada expanded its commitment by resettling an additional 10,000 Syrians, which will now be met, by September 2016.